

Comments:

Our burndown chart was pretty uniform this sprint since everyone was able to start working on day 1 since there was little planning required to implement company functionality, since most of the infrastructure was set up in previous sprints. This allowed us to move at a comfortable pace, similar to the optimal burn rate. Our velocity was around the same as last sprint since we wanted to keep the workload the same as last sprint.