

Comments:

Our burndown chart shows a slow start as the team was busy with other obligations at this time. In the middle of the sprint, we can see some progress being made but most were still busy studying for the exam. We started ramping up during the second week of the sprint and can see that we were able to complete all the stories assigned for the sprint. We were able to complete all the stories pretty quickly once we got started as we had more experience and our features mainly built on top of the existing ones. Our velocity for the sprint was the same as the last 2 sprints as we found 32 points to be a good cutoff for us.